

Intellectual Property and Technology

U.S. and international clients choose Krieg DeVault to secure and enforce their intellectual property rights. Most of our intellectual property and technology lawyers are registered to practice in patent cases before the U.S. Patent Office, and many are experienced at preparing and prosecuting trademark and copyright registration applications. Our lawyers' abilities in intellectual property law are enhanced by their technical backgrounds, which include chemical, civil, mechanical and electrical engineering, and biotechnology, and several have gained practical experience as engineers with Fortune 500 companies and government agencies. We combine all these strengths to protect fully all of our clients' intellectual property rights.
